

Book review : « Mandela et le général »

I am going to present my opinion about a book we studied in English class. The title of the book is Mandela et le général and the publication date is May 2018. The authors are John Carlin and Oriol Malet. John Carlin wrote the text and Oriol Malet made the different illustrations.

I think this story is good because it gives us an idea of what happened and it gives us information about Nelson Mandela, what he did in his life. The good thing in this story, is that we have different points of view on the past and the present.

The drawings represent what is said, they are consistent with the text. They give us an idea about what is going on in the dialogue and allow us to develop our imagination and our ideas. The most highlighted colors are black and white. Then, we have more discreet colours, brown and gray.

In one of the extracts there is a dispute between two people of the same color and nation. One, who supports Nelson Mandela and who feels the pain that he undergoes and another, who is against what he says, he supports his people. But both are preoccupied with what is happening.

I recommend this book because it is very interesting, it is very instructive !

Erica YARDE

Collège Gérard Holder – Guyane (class 404)

Mrs Rignol (English teacher : Mrs PAYRAUD)

Mandela et le Général

218 words