INDIA'S OBSESSION WITH SKIN COLOUR

By Mattéo Sampiao and Melvin Légendart, 303

In India, most people want to have fair skin.

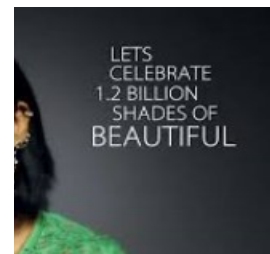

It's a dangerous obsession because they use different kinds of creams that can cause skin diseases.

Celebrities such as Bollywood stars or cricket players, use lightening products or accept to appear in commercials encouraging their fans to use them.

In India, many women, especially from the Dalit community, suffer from inferiority complex, social and matrimonial injustice or prejudice, because of the colour of their skin.

Luckily, there are people such as the film star Nandita Das, fighting against this obsession. She has given her support to the «Dark is Beautiful» campaign, with the slogan «Stay UNfair, Stay Beautiful».

She wants Indian people to realise that there are «1.2 Billion shades of Beautiful».

www.google.fr/search?q=dark+is+beautiful&espv

Dalits: Members of the lowest class in traditional Indian society. They used to be called «Untouchables» and still suffer from social restrictions despite the Law that claims this (out)caste discrimination is forbidden.

Shade: (synonym) colour, tint, tone.

Bollywood: Large scale film industry from Bombay (Mumbai)

En Inde, de nombreuses personnes veulent avoir le teint plus clair en utilisant des produits blanchissants susceptibles de provoquer le cancer de la peau.

De nombreuses célébrités telles que les joueurs de cricket ou les stars Bollywoodiennes, ont recours à ce genre de produits, tandis que d'autres, comme l'actrice Nandita Das, dénoncent cette obsession en réalisant des slogans médiatisés («Stay Unfair, Stay Beautiful» par exemple) ou des parodies de pubs telles que «Fair and Lowly».

THE CLOWN by SOPRANO

*Sorry this evening I'm not smiling
I'm pretending to be on track despite the routine
My makeup is running, my tears are doing some washing
On my clown face (my clown face)
I know well enough that you have nothing to do with my daily problems, my clout, my fits
I'm here to make you forget, you want it to be up beat
This evening I get paid, I put back on my red nose*

Chorus

*Lalalalala lalala lala, Lalalalala lalala lala
Lalalalala lalala lala, Lalalalala lalala lala*

*I'm sorry, children I'm not funny, this colorful costume makes me look stupid
I've hidden behind this angelic smile for quite some time
I don't know how to get rid of it anymore but really who am I?
I feel like a dog trying to get off its leash
But this evening, the room is full, you want it to be up beat
So I wash away my pain and put back on my red nose*

Chorus(x2)

*Am I the only one who wears this mask?
Am I the only one who pretends?
This costume that we put on everyday,
Tell me does it fit us well?
Or is it too big for us?*

Chorus(x2)

*Sorry this evening I'm smiling
My makeup is running, my tears are doing some washing
On my clown face (my clown face)*

A CAÇA (2012)

«A Caça», do seu título original «Jagten», é um filme dramático dinamarquês de 2012 dirigido por Thomas Vinterberg. O filme foi exibido no Festival International de filmes de Cannes de 2012.

Ele fala de um homem acusado injustamente de pedofilia e, desde esse dia, ele foi rejeitado na sua pequena cidade onde todo mundo se conhece.

O filme fala da violência de ser expulso e incompreendido, assim como ser ferido fisicamente e moralmente. O filme se interessa aos sentimentos e aos efeitos nefastos da mentira e dos julgamentos precipitados.

Lucas, o personagem principal vivido pelo ator Mads Mikkelsen, lutou para poder ser aceito de novo no seu meio mas não conseguiu. Pode-se comparar esta situação de injustiça e de rejeição com o Apartheid na África do Sul ou a Segregação nos Estados-Unidos, onde pessoas foram julgadas e mal-tratadas injustamente e sem chances de se defender.

Beyoncé Um símbolo à altura da luta contra o racismo?

Artigo de Lindsay LOWE, 305 (portugais LV 1), 10 de abril de 2016.

O racismo é um grande problema que podemos observar. Mesmo no ambiente escolar, muitos estereótipos existem sobre pessoas com pele escura, por exemplo, alguns dizem que pessoas com pele escura não são tão inteligentes ou bonitas quanto as outras. Para lutar contra o racismo Beyoncé lançou sua canção "Formation" em 6 de fevereiro de 2016 em parceria com Swae, pela gravadora norte-americana Parkwood e produção de Mike Will Made-It e Aplus.

A apresentação que, junto com a música e o figurino que homenageavam o Partido de Resistência e Auto-Defesa Social dos Panteras Negras produziram uma apresentação que traz à tona importantes aspectos da cultura de resistência negra. "Formation" causou um debate racial nos EUA porque este país se encontra fissurado pelo racismo.

Ela denuncia em seu vídeo que a população carcerária nos EUA é majoritariamente negra, sendo que os negros são minoria na população americana. É o país no qual os negros foram discriminados legalmente até 1964. É o país onde os negros vivem nas piores condições de vida e são assassinados sistematicamente pela polícia americana que pratica um racismo sistêmico amplamente criticado e denunciado.

Blue Ivy Carter, filha de Beyoncé, já foi vítima de ataques racistas por seu cabelo black. Durante o refrão, Queen Bey responde aos racistas quando diz que gosta do cabelo de seu bebê, um cabelo de estilo afro. Bey segue exaltando a beleza negra no próximo verso e faz menção aos Jackson 5. Beyoncé evoca igualmente Os Panteras Negras, Martin Luther King e Malcolm-X através da performance. Ao expor personalidades históricas da luta contra o racismo, Beyoncé diz para o mundo todo que heróis negros existem e que os negros deveriam ter orgulho de seus cabelos, narizes e pele.
